

Klinefelter's Syndrome Association Uk

The KSA offers support and information to all affected by, or having an interest in, Klinefelter's Syndrome (KS) and XXY. The aims of the KSA are: to offer support and information to all affected by KS and XXY; to raise awareness of KS and XXY especially amongst the medical profession; to promote research into the management of KS and XXY. Through the website and helpline, information is available to assist employers, teachers, social workers, medical professions and others, who come into contact with people diagnosed with KS and XXY.

Additional Information Early diagnosis and a good understanding of the effects of KS and XXY can greatly alleviate future problems. Therefore the KSA seeks to raise the profile of the condition with the medical profession, other public and private bodies and the general public, so that all understand its implications, not only for the individual affected, but also for all those with whom they have contact during their lives.
