

Department For Education

The Department for Education (DfE) is responsible for education and children's services in England. We work to achieve a highly educated society in which opportunity is equal for children and young people, no matter what their background or family circumstances. DfE is a ministerial department, supported by 10 agencies and public bodies. We are responsible for: Teaching and learning for children in the early years and in primary schools. Teaching and learning for young people under the age of 19 years in secondary schools and in further education. Supporting professionals who work with children and young people. Helping disadvantaged children and young people to achieve more. Making sure that local services protect and support children.
